VÅR HISTORIA

I den lilla byn Horred, längs väg 41 mellan Borås och Varberg, sitter hantverkskunnandet i både väggar och händer. Trots sin blygsamma storlek präglas orten av det ena anrika företaget efter det andra.

Horredsmattan är ett av dem. Horred är en levande bygd där hantverkstraditionen är djupt rotad, precis som i övriga Sjuhärad. Redan under 1500-talet började Sjuhäradsborna väva textilier i hemmen och mot slutet av 1900-talet stod regionen för hälften av Sveriges textilexport. Men trots att Sjuhärad och Horred osar av tradition och klassisk svensk design finns här en vilja och mod att prova nya saker. Som den där gången 1956 när bröderna Brogeby kom över ett parti regnkläder som inte sålde, skar ner dem och testade att väva mattor av remsorna.

Det var början på Horredsmattan!

OUR HISTORY

In the little village of Horred, along road 41 between Borås and Varberg, you'll find craftsmanship in both walls and hands. Despite its modest size the village is characterised by one historical business after the other. Horredsmattan is one of them. Horred is very much alive with a deeply rooted tradition of craftsmanship, in a similar fashion to other towns and villages in the Sjuhärad region. As far back as the 16th century the inhabitants of Sjuhärad began weaving textiles in their homes, and towards the end of the 20th century the region was responsible for half of the Swedish textile export. But even though Sjuhärad and Horred are bursting with tradition and classic Swedish design there's a will and an audacity to try new things. Like the time in 1956, when the Brogeby brothers got their hands on a shipment of rain coats that weren't selling, shredded them and began weaving rugs from the remains. That's how Horredsmattan was born!

UNSERE GESCHICHTE

Die Verbindung von traditionellem Handwerk und innovativem Design hat in Schweden Geschichte. So auch in dem kleinen, aber lebendigen Dorf Horred, wo sich der Hauptsitz von Horredsmattan befindet. Wie in vielen anderen Orten in der Region Sjuhärad blickt unser Dorf mit seinen unzähligen Betrieben auf eine lange Tradition der Handwerkskunst zurück. Schon im 16. Jahrhundert begannen die Bewohner von Sjuhärad einzigartige Textilien zu weben, bis zum Ende des 20. Jahrhunderts war die Region für die Hälfte aller Textilexporte Schwedens verantwortlich. Doch obwohl Sjuhärad und Horred bekannt für die Produktion von zeitlosen Klassikern sind, ist dieser Landstrich auch geprägt von einem gewissen Entdeckergeist und dem Mut, Neues zu wagen. Auch die Brogeby Brüder begaben sich 1956 auf neues Terrain, als eine unverkaufte Ladung Regenmäntel schredderten und aus dem Überresten Teppiche webten. Horredsmattan war geboren!
